

Quantifiers: How much.../ How many...?

FORM: How many + noun + verb

How much + noun + verb

USE: “How much” and “How many” are used to ask questions about quantity.
Use “How much” to ask about nouns you cannot put a number in front of. Money is a good example. You cannot say, “five money”, so you must ask, “How much money...?”
Use “How many” to ask about things you can put a number in front of. Dollars is a good example. You can say, “five dollars”, so you must ask, “How many dollars...?”

EXAMPLES: There are coins in my pocket. → How many coins are there in my pocket?
 There is change in my pocket. → How much change is there in my pocket?

Change the sentences to the interrogative using HOW MUCH? or HOW MANY?

1. There are plants in the room.

2. There are files on my desk.

3. There is coffee in the cup.

4. There are students at the party.

5. There is mustard on my dress.

6. There are windows in the class.

7. There are doctors in the hospital.

8. There is sand in my shoe.

9. There are pens on the desk.

10. There is ink in my pen.

11. There are trees in my yard.

12. There is old furniture in the attic.
